

Revolutionists, in Absolute Control, Maintain Order in Streets of Petrograd

RUSS ARMIES IN NORTH TO BATTLE FOR MAXIMILISTS

The startling news of the Russian situation comes solely from the official government press agency, which is in the hands of the revolutionists.

They also control the telegraph and cable services.

There is, therefore, reason to accept with some reserve the reports which detail the entire success of the Leninist uprising.

made to conciliate the extremists, but that they will be dealt with in a vigorous manner.

May Effect Compromise.

There is some ground for belief, it was asserted here today, that Kerensky may effect a compromise with General Korniloff, deposed war minister, who is awaiting trial now because of his attempt to wrest the control of the army from Kerensky. It was pointed out here that should Korniloff join forces with Kerensky, the troops are much more likely to side with the young premier.

If Kerensky succeeds at the front, it is believed that he will take steps to establish the provisional government in Moscow.

Considerable Loss of Life.

Dispatches today from Petrograd indicated that there was considerable loss of life before the Bolsheviks gained complete control of the capital. The women's battalions of death fought heroically to save the Winter Palace from capture. It was not until after they had been bombarded by the cruiser Aurora and the guns of the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul for four hours that the women soldiers surrendered. Armored motor cars also were used by the Bolshevik troops, who shelled the women's regiment relentlessly.

There were small clashes at several places throughout the city, but the Bolsheviks were in the big majority, and it did not take them long to overcome the loyal soldiers.

JUST BREAKING ABBESS, RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE DECLARES

PARIS, Nov. 8.—M. Makliff, the new Russian ambassador to France, is quoted by the Petit Parisien as declaring that he is without information of any kind concerning the reported overthrow of the Kerensky government.

"If the fall of Kerensky is true," the ambassador is quoted as saying, "it is merely the breaking of the abess that has sorely affected the country. However grievous is the triumph of the Maximilists it is but a momentary success. Eventually it may result in sweeping away all the interior and exterior forces of disunion."

BOLSHEVIKI CALLS PEOPLE AND ARMY TO ITS SUPPORT

PETROGRAD, Nov. 9.—Following the hearing of the rift in the council of soldiers and workmen's delegates, the Russian army has been ordered to elect a delegate from each 25,000 of the population. The announcement was made.

To all army corps and divisional commanders: "Today there is a reunion of the soldiers' and workmen's delegates. The army committees are ordered to send delegates for expressing the will of the army. We suggest to you to send delegates immediately from your midst. To refuse to take part in deciding the destiny of the revolution is a sin which history will not pardon. Elect a delegate from each 25,000 and send them to the reunion. The Petrograd workmen's and soldiers' deputies."

Alexander F. Kerensky, Deposed Russian Premier, and Scene in Russian Duma

This photograph shows a group of Russian revolutionists gathered on the "high throne" in the Duma chamber discussing the plans of the republic. The speaker has just concluded an appeal to the people to "stand by the army."

This shows Kerensky at the height of his career, addressing the armies of the new Russian Republic on a recent visit to the front.

ARMY DICTATOR IS RUSSIA'S NEED, OFFICIALS THINK

ahead and decide in company with its allies which nation it will back up and even stimulate in order to bring about a reorganization in Russia. The military experts have confessed that Russia was out of the war from the moment the Czar was overthrown and the armies began to be disrupted by the propaganda of radicalism. Few believed any military aid could be expected from Russia this year.

The policy, however, has been to strengthen Russia—that her armies would be of value in the latter part of next year. When the decisive strokes from America and the allies are to begin.

Procrastination on Kerensky's part is held generally in Washington to have been responsible for his overthrow. The necessity of maintaining the radicals and at the same time exercising the severest discipline until cohesion has been secured when, alone, extreme programs can be indulged in is fundamental to the success of all revolutions. General Carranza's political ascendancy to Mexico was due to his extreme radicalism. No faction could raise a banner cry that enlisted the sympathy or the support of the population. His program was set forth as a panacea. As soon as a government was established, responsibility fixed, and a semblance of discipline obtained, the central authority began to abandon some of the impractical parts of its program.

Kerensky's mistake has been his tendency to compromise with his opponents. On the other hand, in the absence of detailed information many people here are wondering how much the insidious propaganda of the Germans and the work of Toulon money had to do with undermining Kerensky's power.

Chaos tends to give Germany an advantage, order favors the allies. Unscrupulous methods such as Germany employed in America, it is felt here, were easy to practice in Russia. As a consequence the majority of officials and observers incline to the view that only a military dictatorship can solve the situation. Out of the Russian army may arise a leader in the emergency, but for the present official Washington is disheartened by the events in Petrograd, though it would be wrong to say confidence in the ultimate reintegration of Russia has appreciably diminished.

LOYAL RUSS STAND AGAINST BOLSHEVIKI CHEERS EMBASSY

The Russian embassy was tremendously encouraged by report from Petrograd that the Kerensky government was making a stand against the Bolsheviks.

The embassy regarded "as highly improbable" the Stockholm report that Kerensky had been arrested by them.

"This is the first direct report of that nature we have had from Petrograd," said Secretary Sookine of the embassy, "and the Stockholm rumor must be considered as unauthentic and highly improbable. Only a short time ago, you must remember, Stockholm reported Kerensky shot."

Sookine said he was still without official advice from the provisional government and that fact alone gave the embassy concern.

"Our latest cables received were of Monday date," stated the secretary, "and left Petrograd apparently before the reported Bolshevik revolt took place."

The embassy reiterated that it was their belief the defection was purely local and confined to the Petrograd soldiers' and workmen's council under leadership of the Trotsky-Lenin extreme radicals.

Official eyes were on the Russian army and navy. Their bearing toward the Petrograd revolution will decide Russia's future. A report of the refusal by two Cossack regiments to obey the provisional government's orders does not impair Kerensky's authority seriously, stated the embassy. More than 500,000 Cossacks are still loyal to the Government, it was claimed.

RUSSIAN COLLAPSE IS FOLLOWED BY GERMAN TOASTS IN MEXICO

EL PASO, Nov. 9.—News of the collapse of the Russian government and that peace is to be sought at once by that wobbly nation was received with great joy by Germans in Mexico. Many banquets were held at which officers of Carranza's army were guests.

Germans in El Paso communicated to their fellow countrymen in Juarez the press dispatches containing information that Russia was out of the war. The Germans in Juarez conveyed the information to Chihuahua.

EUROPEAN WAR NEWS SUMMARY

Complexity has again entered into the situation in Italy. Instead of the straightforward withdrawal of troops from one line to another, covered by delaying rearward tactics that has been the aspect of the operations, the picture has become one of flanking thrusts by the invading Austro-Germans, developing a broken and harried line of retreat for the Italians.

It now appears that the official statements from Rome sent forth immediately after the retirement from the Tagliamento river was determined upon were either disingenuous or altogether ill-informed. All the Italian troops were not successfully withdrawn from that position, and 17,000 of them, including their divisional commander, were, as a fact, captured by the Austro-Germans.

It was pointed out in this column at the time the Germans effected their first crossing of the Tagliamento at Pinzano, that this immediately flanked the Italian line along the upper middle course of the stream between Pinzano and Gemona and Gemona and Tolmezzo. It was in this easterly bulge of the river that the Italian forces were cut off, together with their eighty cannon.

LIVENZA LINE PIERCED.

The Livenza river line has ceased to hold. The official German report at hand today states that the stream has been crossed at several places, and the Italian report, by indirection, admits this and that fighting has begun in the territory of the Livenza. The Italian statement says numerous engagements occurred between the hills of Vittorio and the confluence of the Monticane and the Livenza rivers.

The town of Vittorio is in the hill country, some ten miles west of the Livenza river and north of the Udine-Treviso-Venice railway, on a branch line. The Monticane rises in these hills and flows southeastward between the Livenza and the Piave rivers, joining the former about thirty miles southeast of Vittorio. The fighting is, therefore, going on less than five miles east of the Piave, supposedly the next stand of General Cadorna's forces.

KERENSKY'S OVERTHROW IMPORTANT.

The overthrow of the weak and vacillating Kerensky government by the extreme Socialists in Petrograd may become of vital importance from a military standpoint. If the chief item in the new government's political creed—an immediate peace, irrespective of the other nations fighting the central powers—becomes fact, the military consequences will be felt on all the other European fronts. Even speculation is important before the manifold possibilities and necessities in change of the allied plans that would thus become urgent.

Little change has appeared in the situation on the French and Flanders fronts. A new operation has been begun by the French in Alsace, in the region of Seppois, or what the Germans call the Sundgau. This has been carried on on both sides of the Rhone-Rhine Canal, northwest of Altkirch, and almost directly east of the great French fortress of Belfort. German trench positions were captured, but thus far the operation appears to be of not more than local importance.

City and Torreon, from where the wire was sent broadcast through Mexico to Germans.

Reports received from Chihuahua city announced that a banquet was held by the Germans there and that Gen. Francisco Murguía, Carranza military commander of the north, and his staff were asked to attend.

In Torreon Germans are reported to have celebrated the Russian overthrow and to have been joined by many Carranza military officers.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Following an unusually heavy artillery bombardment the Germans last night launched a series of desperate attacks against French forces in Chaumont in Lorraine. The war office reported today that all of these attacks were repulsed by machine gun and infantry fire. The Germans, the war office statement said, suffered severely in dead and wounded. The French also took many prisoners. The Germans also launched attacks, of a less violent character, in the Arracourt sector. These, too, were repulsed, the war office announced, the Germans losing heavily there also.

General Petain's men carried out two successful raids. In the Arracourt, on the left bank of the Meuse, French troops pierced the German lines and returned with prisoners. In upper Alsace, French raid parties also were successful, bringing in prisoners.

SALZMANN IS SURE GERMANY HAS WON

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 9.—Colonel Salzmann, the Vossische Zeitung's military correspondent, addresses an open letter to the Times, beginning, "Dear Colonel Repington," whom he accuses of abusing and deriding the German army. He asks, "Why these lies?"

CHILE CONDEMNS U-BOAT WARFARE OF GERMANY

The Chilean government, breaking a long silence, has denounced Germany's ruthless submarine warfare.

The Chilean foreign office in a message to the Peruvian government states that Peru was justified in breaking diplomatic relations with Germany over the sinking of a Peruvian merchantman. Foreign Minister Mujica, who signed the message, was a former Chilean ambassador here.

The friendship of Peru and Chile had been greatly strained by a boundary dispute. Mujica indicated that the present interchange of notes had accomplished much in "cultivating good relations between our two countries," and that it is the Chilean wish that the two nations be brought closer together.

BRITISH RAID ENEMY LINES AT HARGICOURT

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A successful raid was carried out by British troops to the east of Hargicourt. This was all Field Marshal Haig reported from the British front today.

GERMAN LINE HEADS GOT "TIP" ON RAID

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Developments today in connection with the seizure of records and documents in the offices of the Hamburg-American line here by a Government agent are said to leave little doubt that a German spy, in a position to learn important Government plans in advance, gave officials of the steamship company a "tip" in advance of the raid.
